The Ultimate Collection will also include a number of exciting new features. Players can now create their own authentic-looking player designs, creating a new look for the players on their team cards in Ultimate Team. In addition, there's an exciting new feature where players can train with their team in Ultimate Team, with a new tutorial including instructions. Custom Player Designs Players can create a new set of player designs and then put their custom designs on their players' body outlines. The team needs to have a set number of "body parts" in order to be able to change the player design. Players can select from 10 different skin tones, which offer more options than ever before, as well as select player traits such as tattoos and piercings. Satellite Tracking And Team Partnerships Tracking will be used extensively in the new Ultimate Team Mode. Players will need to make adjustments to player transfers and formations, adding depth to the team. If a player is injured, the team can add a substitute through the satellite tracking system, or activate their partner's performance. When a player scores a goal, satellite tracking can be activated to track the player's movement. Teammates The new Ultimate Team Mode includes player partnerships, which allow players to activate and deactivate assists to their teammates as needed, as well as receive free kicks. A new feature called "Pace App" allows players to simulate a teammate gaining possession of the ball before the ball is played to them. New EASL-8 Style Bench Management In the new Ultimate Team Mode, players will gain access to EASL-8 Style Bench Management, which allows players to switch to bench play at any time. Players can also gain access to bench players by tapping the player's name in the middle of the screen while on the bench.
