Fusion Features Key:

- This game only uses fusion chassis building rules

Build rules:

- 1 ship base constructed
- 15 production slots, including 2 on starter planets (Ticula, Auriga)
- Once produced must design / construct
- Each ship design production cost's average design cost and average construction cost
- Once constructed, you are limited as to how many and how quickly you can produce
- once constructed, ship hold 1 slot each, but some slot designs are more valuable than others
- At 1 production slot, you only construct 1 ship so you have less safety margin while building the ship
- Ship base is built at 1mm size and number of frame elements
- World map is one quadrilateral partitioned in quadrants 10 by 10
- The cost of building a ship base is $2 * mmPow$
- Base population growth rate of 1 trade group, slow across the board
- 1 trade group = 20 people
- Population growth of 1 pop of 10% per week
- the travel rate is 1%
- by design, most designs have a 20% chance of exchange opportunity
- any design that doesn't get the exchange opportunity will either disburse into gas, land, or ocean

Fusion Crack +

'Primula' is a visual novel made for individual creation. The game integrates almost all graphics using animated figures, event stick, title screen, etc. including backgrounds and the characters. Chibitobi (beat 'em up) scene and battle scenes are animated in a full-fledged way. There are scenes where the protagonist battles the monster army - the PE-ST. Their only tactic is the BRU-UM, which is designed for any rules (cheating). As the pilot of this giant robot, the one who has unmatched talent, whose name was 'This-Gen', was just a single daughter, This-Gen. The only thing that can be done to rescue her under the circumstances is to send her to the battlefield as a soldier. However, since she didn't accept the fact she will become a hero, the one who rescued her will be the true hero - Itohime. The mother of This-Gen who belonged to the same set as 'This-Gen'. 'This-Gen' (This is the only one who can be) aims to make this world a peaceful place to conceal her daughter's talent. In addition, 'This-Gen' will be going to become a hero.

Game of Thrones - What is it about? Tékken. "Tékken" in Japanese means "duel". Like the name says, it's a game where two characters fight it out with swords. It's a story that took place in both the real and fantasy world. And the people to watch over the two worlds are the Kings and the Noble Houses. (From gundam.jp)

Story The middle of the world is the continent of Essos, and in the middle of Essos is Westeros. The two worlds and their people are separated by a huge sea. In each world, there are a number of counties. In Westeros, the North is ruled by the Starks, the Westerlands by the Lannisters, the Riverlands by the Tullys, the Stormlands by the Baratheons, and the Vale by the Arryn. When the different lords were still in their infancy, the First Men returned from the east to the continent of Essos. Some of them settled in the continent of Westeros. And from the descendants of those First d41b202975
