Bass is a playable character which is similar to Nash, only Bass has a kick that is more powerful. Beating a rival is a good way to gain fame and a cheap ticket to the top. The various costumes available for Bass are all around the world, but Bass himself is still in Japan. There are around ten different costumes to choose from. They also came out with a simple version of Bass that allows you to customize your character by selecting shoes and accessories. While the present is a simple costume, an early version of the Bass appeared as a part of The Last Blade which introduces many characters. Bass comes with one of the following alternate costumes. Bass x DS - One of the standard costumes. The costume is named after the "Dream Stage." This is the first stage of DOA. Bass x B99 - One of the alternate costumes. It comes with a black version of the Kenpo Belt and the Bitter Chai Mug. Exhaustive DoA Ultimate 9 Bass Deluxe Costume - A more expensive costume with new items. Bass x Vans Complete Set - A set with Bass' already-confirmed costumes and Vans' boots. The DOA6 Bass Deluxe Costume Content: This content includes a Bass Deluxe costume, and new items to help customize the costume. Note: -This content is also available as a part of a set for a discounted price. Be careful not to purchase the same content twice. -You must have the latest update installed before using this content. Costume: DOA6 Bass Deluxe (Legendary) costume:

-Includes 1 epic costume and 1 regular costume. -Hero's Contract item: -If the epic costume is redeemed, the equip will be automatically changed to the non-epic version, and you will receive the CD-Key for the redeemable items. If you want to receive the original non-epic costume equip again, you will need to redeem the Epic version for a total of two times. Items:
- Body part items: Head, Chest, and Pants (One is selected at random). NOTE: Only one item of the 3 can be equipped. This means you cannot mix and match items. - Extra/Branch items: The choice is made automatically by Bass, so you can't interfere. - Shoes: BMX Shoes, Vans, and Rocker Shoes. You can only choose one pair. Crafting Data: Crafting Data and Equipment

What's new in Super Jigsaw Puzzle: Generations - Switzerland:

Shiny the Firefly is an American animated television series created by David A. Goodman and produced by Cartoon Network Studios and Turner Entertainment. It is a sequel to the 2005 series Steven Universe. The series is about an elementary school girl who discovers that she is actually the time travelling main protagonist from the original series and that she now has to deal with the consequences of her actions. The series premiered on August 14, 2019, and ended on April 13, 2020. Premise Shiny the Firefly was inspired by the film Timecrimes, which Goodman has stated is the series' overarching theme. The central premise of the series features a primary school girl named Celestia, who due to circumstances surrounding her birth, is revealed in the later episodes of the series to be the time-traveling main protagonist of the original series Steven Universe. As a result of this secret, her identity is at first unknown to the other elementary school kids, who, as shown later in the series, actually already knew of her previously. This is a device designed to allow stories to unfold without telling the audience Steven's true fate. Rather, there are many dramatic developments centered on the point of seeing which character is having a seizure, as well as seeing whether she has accidentally killed someone while in the future. The series' protagonists are shown as often exploring town, followed by her showing a concern for something else. A heroine-type change is then shown, building the viewers' emotional investment into the characters. The series was previously meant to end in a single season in 2018, but with new showrunner Matt Burnett, they were given permission to add new characters and spinoffs. Setting The series takes place on the fictional New York City suburb of San Dimas. The town's name was inspired by the concepts of pop-puberty and the idea that pop-culture is a phase that all of us go through. As with the original series, the town has five major streets that are intersected by smaller side-streets. Although not named, the show is set sometime after the events of the series' original release, before the creation of the Homeworlds, except for the character Cora, who is from the Homeworlds itself, and Ulnar, who originally appeared in Steven's dream, who may have existed before Steven Universe. The characters' names were inspired by Firestone and Wizarding World of Harry Potter locations. Production On April 19, 2016, TVLine reported that Timothy M. S

You are forbidden from screaming, and most of the inhabitants of this dimension are obsessed with the color purple. There are a number of subplots and unusual situations you must solve, including a giant horse created by Doctor Wondertainment, a crow who wants to take over the world, a legion of abandoned child warriors, a secret society of mermaids, and more! Features: An original concept with interesting and strange characters Six unique environments to explore Unique storyline, rules, and game mechanics Multiple endings based on your choices Over 30 min. of puzzles An original soundtrack composed by award-winning game composer Tom Kovach Major visual and sound updates inspired by today's gamer Get ready to meet your new best friend in the alternate dimension:This invention relates to a method of and apparatus for performing arterial-venous dialysis. Arterial-venous dialysis systems are used in treatment of patients suffering from kidney diseases which may require replacement of uremic toxins in the blood by metabolic elimination of those toxins or a combination of metabolic and parenchymal elimination, or, in a manner such as to measure the effect of the toxins removed. Hemodialysis and peritoneal dialysis are two examples of such systems. One example of a hemodialysis system is shown in co-pending U.S. patent application Ser. No. 173,838, filed July 26, 1980, of Stephen E. Robinson and entitled "Automatic Dialysis System", which has been assigned to the common assignee of this invention and which is incorporated by reference herein. Such systems generally comprise means for dialysing blood withdrawn from the patient from the femoral vein. Thereafter, the dialyzed blood, either alone or in combination with processed blood obtained from the patient, is returned to the patient via the femoral artery. This enables the patient's natural elimination process to be measured and to some extent replaced. Particular problems encountered in such dialysis procedures are caused by the sudden increase in blood pressure caused by hemodial
