How to Export Firebird table to xml file using python? How to export Firebird table to xml file using python? A. Python has its own support of XML serialisation, this should be enough: import xml.etree.cElementTree as etree # store in file f = open('foo.xml', 'w') doc = etree.ElementTree(root = doc.parse('')) root.append(doc.find('bar').text) etree.write(' doc1.r', doc1) f.close() # read from file f = open('foo.xml', 'r') print(etree.read(' doc1.r').text) Alternatively, you could use the Firebird database like database API, that would allow you to do a INSERT INTO and then export the result set. In the final inning, the Texas Rangers completed their sweep of the Oakland Athletics with a score of 2-1. Mauer's fourth-inning single to right field was the difference after a four-run second inning. This win, combined with the Detroit Tigers' sweep of the Baltimore Orioles, helped the Twins clinch a playoff berth. The Tigers, who were trailing the Twins in the AL Central by nine games, won every game in this series and won the division as a result. For the year, Mauer batted.305 with 23 doubles, a triple, and 24 home runs. He was also the team's cleanup hitter and played the leadoff spot consistently. Mauer led all American League hitters in triples and OPS. He was a finalist for the AL Most Valuable Player Award and finished second. Mauer played five seasons in a Red Wings jersey. In 2009, he won
