POW POW: Dye it up!

After many many minutes, I think I've finally completed the Japanese puzzle "POW POW". Using only a mouse and a click, answer the questions and make the puzzle go away.

The Japanese puzzle was illustrated by my friend Hiroshi Kawakami and the game was developed by the game company King.co.jp, using Corona SDK (an excellent tool for developing games for the web and mobile, see). As an educational product, the "POW POW" puzzle is particularly suitable for children, since it is very simple, without any violent images, when you regard the color - the aim is to demystify the usual "black and white".

Find instructions and download the puzzle here.

This Free online puzzle and Japanese puzzle are an introductory game and were created using Corona SDK. It would be interesting to create some more and interesting puzzles using other tools, so if you have ideas, feel free to contact me. I'd be happy to be inspired!

Finally, let me congratulate Hiroshi, King.co.jp and Corona SDK for their achievement: a beautifully created puzzle, for FREE, accessible to anyone, including kids, anyone who is interested in Japanese culture.
