Q: Can access to facebook webhook - FB.Event.subscribe asp.net I want to create and call webhook that show news in my website. I used a library but when i tried to subscribe my app, i got error : Facebook on Webhook: This application is not allowed to send the following Facebook events: User management, User photo and user permissions, User timeline, User friends, User birthday, User location. Users can only subscribe to custom application events. My code is very simple :

```
FB.Event.subscribe('app-id/app-name/'+data.gid+'/' +data.sid, function(data){ console.log(data); });
```

My App use Facebook access_token and secret_key that i found as string in my page source when i try to debug the webhook call on facebook : My question is: Is it true that fb cannot subscribe some event? My second question is : Is there another way to subscribe to events in asp.net and manage them later from my c# code? Edit : I know that most of you will say the library to use but i don't know it. A: Adding an answer to this question to mark it as solved. You need to use the Graph API for this.

Q: EmberJS - How to make a component available to all routes? I have several routes in my application, some are child routes of other routes. I'd like the component that I defined in a route to be available on all other routes too. Here is what I mean : 6d1f23a050
