Hey deer lesson plans. In The Bear That Wasn't There, author Frank Tashlin uses words and images to describe this process. The book tells how he met a man in the forest who told him how he became a hunter. He described it as his first chance to experience real hunting after years of spending time killing only deer. According to Tashlin, he went into the woods the next day, armed with his Winchester, and this time he took his hunting gear with him. On the way back to his home, within two hours, Tashlin discovered that his gun was loaded and that he had fired at
